BELYAST, June 10 .- Four of the rioters terday's riots died to-day. Four others are dying.

The Orangemen are making large pur chases of arms and are declaring that they will have revenge upon the police for firing into their ranks.

At a meeting of Protestants living on he Shankhill road, resolutions were adopted denouncing the action of the police from outlying districts in coming to Belfast and attacking peaceful citizens, and demanding their withdrawal.

demanding their withdrawal.

The number of policemen on duty in Belfast this afternoon at three o'clock, was 1,300. A number of troops from Newry have also arrived to assist the police in maintaining order. The Magistrates have ordered all the taverns in the city to be closed to night. No mobs are to be allowed to congregate in the streets.

BUSINESS PARALYZED,

The people here have been wrought to state of great excitement by the riotous lemonstrations of Orangemen during the past two days. All work is stopped, stores are closed, and many residences are closely barricaded. Mobs are in every street prepared for further deeds of riolence. The Orangemen are greatly in-sensed at the constabulary for firing upon hem, and threaten to sack their barracks them, and threaten to sack their parracks. Detachments of soldiers and police from Dufblin and other cities are being for-warded to Belfast to assist the authorities in restoring order.

At midnight a mobof Orangemen raided a public house kept by a Catholic named O'Hare, and after sacking it set it on fire.

THE POLICE WHIPPED,

The police charged the rioters a dozen imes with bayonets, but each time were forced back by volleys of stones. The police were finally forced to take refuge in the harracks, where they fired upon the mob from the second story windows. The mob, however, held their ground twenty minutes longer, although the firing of the police was heavy and increasant.

Scores of the rioters were wounded.

Scores of the rioters were wounded, and it is known positively that six men and two women were killed. A great many wounded persons were carried away by friends, and whether their injuries are fatal is not yet known. Twenty of the rioters who received bullet wounds are lying in one infirmary. A large number of Orangemen who took part in the riots were arrested to-day. An inquest on the bodies of those killed will be opened this afternoon. Scores of the rioters were wounded

An eye witness of the riots on Wednesday gives the following description of the scene attending the mob's attack on the Bowers Hill Police Station: Women with pokers pried up paving stones and broke them into suitable sizes for the use of the rioters, when they ran short of missiles. Women and young girls entreated the men to continue the fighting whenever they flagged, offering them aprons full of fresh stones, and when entreaty failed the women and girls drove the men on by savage threats.

At one factory the Protestant lemnales have struck work, demanding the dismissal of the Catholics.

The rioting was renewed to-night. An infuristed mob held possession of the streets and wrecked and pillaged the taverns. The police were compelled to fire buckshot into the mob. So far as known no one was fatally wounded. Many of the police were injured by stones. The appeals of the clergy to the rioters to disperse were futile. Eventually the troops cleared the streets.

There is an increase of ne-sixth of last year's breadth in Dakota, decrease in Nebraska and a small reuction in Minnesota and Wisconsin The Minnesota spring districts show a small advance. The extension of the area in Dakota is due mainly to settlement and ecessity for ready money for improvements and somewhat to last year's unsatfactory flax product. A slight decline in condition is reported in the West and the low condition of Southern crops is more reduced, yet the average is only reduced two points, from 92 to 94. It is still from average to high in the great wheat producing States. In New York it is not littering as in years of strong root growth. It is very promising in Maryland and Virginia. the History of the State's College-Boys who think for Themselves-The Executive Committee Abolished.

MORGANTOWN, W. VA., June 10-The mencement in many years in the history of the State University occurred to-day. The largest crowd ever seen in Morgantown on a similar occasion began pouring into town at early dawn, coming among them many old students and was crowded and hundreds were on the campus unable to be accommodated.

President Turner, in opening the ex rcises, took occasion to say that he was glad to announce that the University had passed through the most critical year in its existence with brighter hope for the future; that the present management had the confidence of the public and the approval of the press of the State.

A sensation occurred after the delivery of Mr. You's oration on "Evolution of Language." The young man took rather strong grounds on evolution in general. On its conclusion President Turner said he wanted the audience to distinctly understand that the faculty did not endorse the sentiments of the speaker, and no such doctrine was taught in the College.

The graduates were R. H. Armstrong,
R. W. Dawson, W. N. Berkeley, J. K. Shepherd, Z. F. Yost and N. M. Waters.
The University conferred the degree of L. L. D. on Dr. Joseph E. Smith, formerly pastor of the Fourth Street M. E. church of Wheeling; Thomas M. Edgar, President of the Arkanssa Industrial University, and ex-Senator Waitman T. Willey.

President Turner's address to the gra duates was a fine effort, and if his advice is followed will be the ground work of their success.

The prize for the best paper on "the Literature of the Elizabethan Age and the Genius of Shakespeare," was awarded to W. N. Berkeley, jr., a fifty dollar check given by President Turner.

The Board of Regents abolished the Executive Committee and appointed five of their own number to act and visit the University whenever necessity occurs. Jniversity whenever necessity occurs.

Special Correspondence of the Intelligencer, FAIRMONT, June 10.—Your correspondent, who left Wheeling yesterday evening for Morgantown, met with rather a rare experience on the train. It is said you can travel in China and meet an American in every city. This may be true, but in in every city. This may be true, but in this country the unexpected happens. I would not have been in the least upset by meeting an officer of Governor Jackson's administration in Canton or Pekin, but to meet him on the rollicking curves of the Baltimore & Ohio, between Wheeling and this town, is beyond passing strange. I have the conductor's word for it that he did not blow in from a vagrant cornfield, and as Captain Stotsberry was the conductor you may know that he would not deceive such a blast furnace of a Republi-cer began to unbosom himself to me. Now, mind you, I did not solicit this confidence; in fact, I repelled it. But can the growing corn dely the am, or the parched pasture the welcome dow?

THE PARTY ORGAN. "Do you know,"—and this expression, however original with himself, is em-balmed in the memory of all who have balmed in the memory of all who have heard the "Private Secretary"—"Do you know," he said, "that I am getting tired of the Register; its weakness; its namby-pamby policy on all things? Why, [with spirit] Taney has no sand. He disgusts me. Now, there is Hart; he's got some spunk, and he is a sharp man withal."
"But," I protested, "you must certainly know that Mr. Taney is a particular friend of mine, and although you flatter Mr. Hart through me, because you know I am a vassal of his kingdom, you must understand that I want to do justice, You must know, also, that Mr. Hart is Mr. Taney's friend."
"Oh, well, I understand you newspaper men. You always want to stand by each other. That is creditable; I have always admired the profession for it, but here is a case—
"Now don't come hear to that agricus

"Now, don't come back to that serious subject again," I interrupted. "Let us talk about the future of Jonas Pickett; or, the Rise and Downfall of Real Estate in the Rise and Downfall of Real Estate in Concealed Quarters."

The mention of Pickett started my enemy's tongue wagging, and from city officers he finally switched off on State matters. That the Jackson regime was the crowning glory of the Bourbon rule in his State the meekest Wetzel county guerilla will not deny. But to hear this Jacksonian say that things were falling all to pieces since the Insane Asylum had been moved to Charleston, was more than I bargained for.

Uproarious Harmony. UPROARIOUS HARMONY.

"Taney is against Camden, but he hasn' the nerve to say so; all he wants is cashcold dollars, and he knows that Camden cold dollars, and he knows that Camden has lots of them —"

"Now please tell me of your trip through the State. Don't wasp my friend Taney anymore than he is 'wasped.'"
Just then my companion, I call him companion for decency's sake—struck a generous vein and commented on the strange interests of the State. "Now on the Chesapeake & Ohio," said he, "you meet with men who say 'kyar' for car and you see the Richmond and Clincinnati papers—everything Southern. In the Northern end of the State you meet with exactly the opposite. Now fancy—"
"You will please observe the order of business," I made bold to suggest, "and peep up with the procession you have peep up with the procession you have started. You said you noticed the differ-started. You said you noticed the differ-ence between the south and the north end of the State. What of it?"

"Well, as I said before, their tastes and pronunciation are different, and there are other things I would not like to give away. For instance, at Alderson, in Monroe county, not many days ago, the teacher in a multic school was trying to impress upon s public school was trying to impress upon the scholars the relation of a State to the the scholars the relation of a State to the National Government, explaining the doctrine that the State is subservient to the national power. This was combated by several youths between 12 and 14 years, who maintained that if the State did not vote for the President elected, that they were in no wise beholden to the Government."

This is the feeling to day among the youth of Monroe county.

AN INTERRUPTION. A well built man had been quietly sleep ing in front of our pew, but had, unknown to me, taken it all in. When he heard my friend relate his experience he roused himself, and turning viciously on the only present member of the late Jacksonian Administration, said:

"You're a Southerner?"

"Partly so," replied my mild companion.

"Partly so," replied my mild companion.
"Well," said the fierce unknown, "all I have to say is that the South was bambooxled, misledfand misgaided. The difference between the warring elements was this: The North was ighting for principle and the South was battling for a misgaided purpose. I am a Republican, young man, older they you; fought through the war. You may be as good a Democrat as you please, but when you trot out, or your parly does, such traitors as Jeff Davis, then I have a little faith in you. I am for the stars and stripes every time; the Union every time and then some."

The conversation was shut off here by the gentleman getting off the train at Mannington, and when I asked my friend for the result of the Davisortia participants.

The steamer George Matheson is lying at the company's landing, on board of which are twenty armed detectives from Cincinnati.
